Re: Ohio Director's "Stay at Home" Order

Dear customers, vendors, suppliers, and project partners:

Today, we are writing to provide you with an update regarding North American Coating Laboratories (NACL) status at this stage of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Through the present date, NACL has been operating and will remain operating at full capacity with no known cases of infection among our staff, and no disruptions to our supply chain. The current business and world environment we are all facing due to COVID-19 is constantly changing and bringing with it new and unanticipated challenges. As always, our goal here at NACL is to ensure that your needs are met and that we deliver coated products without interruption. Parallel to this goal is providing the safest workspace we can for our valued employees.

On Sunday March 22, the State of Ohio issued a formal "Stay at Home" order in response to the current Coronavirus outbreak, (COVID-19), effective at 11 :59 p.m. on Monday March 23, 2020. This order is due to expire on 11 :59 p.m. on April 6, 2020, unless the Director of the Ohio Department of Health rescinds or modifies this order at a sooner time and date.

Due to our position in the military, medical, and transportation supply-chains, North American Coating Laboratories qualifies as an "Essential Infrastructure" business according to the mandates provided by The State of Ohio on March 22nd 2020, and the Federal Government on March 19th, 2020.

As always, our goal is to ensure that your needs are met and that we deliver coated products without interruption. If you have any questions, please contact us at any time or respond directly to this e-mail.

We thank you for your continued business and trust.

Yours sincerely,

The Executive Management Team at North American Coating Laboratories
